TAKING CHURCH TO THE PEOPLE

Object of Nation-Wide Movement Now in Inception.

STYLED "MEN AND RELIGION"

Campaign to Be Opened in New York in Middle of November and to Spread All Over Country, Ending May First.

New York, Sept. 19.—Further plans for New York's part in the Men and Religion forward movement were discussed at a special conference in the Broadway tabernacle.

There were more than 400 ministers present, representing practically every Protestant religious body in the city. About fifty laymen attended. It was decided to make next Sunday a rally day for the men and to put before them the plans of the movement.

A feature of the religious campaign in New York, which is scheduled for the middle of November, will be a great street parade in which men and boys will take part. The exact date for this was not decided, but left to the discretion of a special committee. No pains will be sparred to make this parade, which it is planned to hold on Saturday afternoon, elaborate and imposing. The leaders of the movement and the men locally interested agree that the campaign to bring the church to the workingman will be more difficult in New York than in any other city and every speaker laid stress on the necessity for concerted and vigorous action on the part of New York churches to make the movement effectual in New York.

James G. Cannon, chairman of the executive committee of the Men and Religion forward movement, one of the speakers of the afternoon conference, said that he believed that the time has come when the churches must use up-to-date methods in the presentation of the gospel if they are to reach the people. Business methods have changed in the last fifty years, he said, and the churches must change their methods with the times. The purpose of the new movement, which is to embrace the United States and Canada, is not to foist another society on the churches, but to send trained laymen to the individual communities, who will build up the churches they find there and leave behind plans of further development which will perpetuate themselves after the movement officially goes out of existence on May 1.

Among the other speakers at this meeting were Charles Stelzle, social service leader of the movement, Rev. Dr. Arthur Brown, Raymond Robins of Chicago and Gypsy Smith, the evangelist.

COUNCILMEN TO REPRESENT CITY AT SAGINAW

The usual number of communications and bills were presented at the regular meeting of the Council Monday evening. No new business of any particular importance was transacted. The aldermen present were Moore, Cornwell, Stevens, Thomas, Worden, Huston, Whitman, McDermott and Mayor Towner presided.

Permission was granted Jesse Collyer to move a frame barn from South Washington street to his property on Bell street.

A petition by Wm. Bursha requesting that a sidewalk be built in front of his property at 111 and 112 Davis street was granted by the council.

S. Hutchinson, J. Berg and William Campbell, special assessors, reported that they had completed the assessment roll for the sewer constructed on Oak street, commencing at River street and running east to the Thayer property, and that the report had been filed in the office of the City Clerk. On motion of Ald. Huston this report was accepted and filed. A meeting of the Council will be held Monday, Oct. 2, at 7:30 p. m. to review it.

The council voted to pay the claims of Groves and Leas for $12, Phoebe Robtoy for $17.15, and George Spears for $5.00 out of the contingent fund. The claim of Dr. Post was returned to him for separation. The claim of John Engle for $10 was referred to a committee.

On motion of Ald. Moore the report of the committee on ways and means recommending that the sum of $25 be paid Mrs. H. E. Dickinson for field notes made by her husband, was adopted.

A resolution was adopted that suitable lights should be placed on the bridge on Cross street before the bridge is paved.

The City Surveyor was directed to make a diagram and plat of the contemplated sewer on Lincoln street from the north line of the Klaviter property, south to North street, as required by Section 150 of the Charter, and report the same to the Council.

A resolution that Washington street curbing, from Ellis to Cross street be constructed at once on both sides, and that the City Engineer be instructed to give the necessary grade for it, was unanimously adopted.

Resolutions were also adopted that Gas & Son should repair all walks broken by them, and that the streets be cleaned on Saturday evening after the teams are gone so that they will present a neat appearance for Sunday. The latter was referred, later, to the committee on streets and walks.

An invitation from Mayor Stewart of Saginaw to the Council to attend the annual convention of the League of Michigan Municipalities to be held in that city Sept. 20, 21 and 22 was read. The Mayor appointed a committee consisting of Ald. Cornwell, Stevens and McDermott to attend. The name of Mapor Towner was added to this committee.

A meeting of the comissioners of Public Works was held Monday. Those present were Comissioners King and Walterhouse; absent, Commissioner Webster. After auditing the claims presented the comissioners adjourned.

CALL 300 GRAFT WITNESSES

Ohio Grand Jurors Begin New Probe of Legislature.

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—Investigation of corruption in the state legislature at the last general assembly, was taken up by the grand jury here. Twenty-four prospective grand jurors have been summoned to be by a process of elimination reduced to fifteen, who will constitute the September grand jury.

The investigation is being taken up where the last grand jury left off. It is believed the present session will last two weeks and there are about 300 witnesses to examine.

RUSSIAN DIES FROM WOUNDS IN MUCH PAIN

Kiev, Russia, Sept. 19.—P. A. Stolypin, prime minister of Russia, who was shot during a gala performance at the opera house Thursday night last, died last night. His heart was not strong enough to withstand the effects of an internal hemorrhage which followed the removal of the bullet.

The dying man suffered intense agony, during which he would murmur frequently: "Death—death is creeping on!" His last words were: "Lift me. Light up."

The authorities at first decided to conceal the news of the premier's death until morning, fearing anti-Jewish outbreaks. This was found to be impossible, and after the announcement was made all the attention of the authorities was centered in the protection of the Jews who were panic-stricken, and 30,000 troops were poured into Kiev to prevent excesses. The city is depressed but calm.

M. Kokovsoff, the minister of finance, who was appointed acting premier after M. Stolypin was shot, has sent a peremptory circular to the various governors on the maintenance of order. It is stated on excellent authority that M. Kokovsoff will be appointed premier.

Premier Stolypin was only 48 years old. He was educated at the University of St. Petersburg, graduating in 1884; served in the ministers of the interior and agricultural, was made marshal of the provincial nobility in 1899, vice-governor of Grodno in 1902, and governor of Saratoff in 1903. He was classed in politics as an Octobrist, but in reality was above party affiliations and used such combinations as he could effect to carry out his will.

Stolypin first came into prominence as the governor of Saratoff, a post which he held through the early years of the century. It was there in 1905 that the first attempt was made to kill him. Three shots were fired at him by a terrorist assassin, but he was not hit. He was reproached for establishing a new university in this province. He replied that it was only by introducing the higher education into the province that the work of developing law and order could be successfully advanced in Russia.

In May, 1906, the czar called him to St. Petersburg and made him minister of the interior in the Goremykin ministry. He only remained three months in this post, but that was long enough for him to be savagely assailed on the floor of the duma as a tyrant, a murderer, a butcher, a monster of cruelty. His merciless pursuit of terrorists caused the attacks on him, but the czar approved his course and made his premier in July, 1906, keeping him continuously in office since, despite many plots to shake his confidence in Stolypin.

SCOUTS AND TAFT GET HONORS IN DETROIT

YPSI SCOUTS CARRY FLAG; MANY CHEER

There is no doubt in the minds of those who saw the Ypsilanti Boy Scouts in Detroit, Monday, that they have the right to one of the highest places among such organizations in the state. Their appearance and general conduct in Detroit Monday was such as to command most favorable comment and in their marches along the city streets they were frequently applauded with much enthusiasm.

The scouts arrived in Detroit 65 strong at 1:10 p. m. under charge of Pres. W. H. Sherzer, Drill Master Gorton and Assistant Drill Master Willard. Through the foresight of Prof. Sherzer the boys were given a surprise shortly after their arrival by being ushered in a sight seeing automobile for a fine sight seeing trip in interesting sections of the city. Shortly after 2 o'clock they returned to the Wayne hotel where they had received orders to get their position in the President's line of march and await his readiness to go to another place.

In the matter of position they were honored by being granted the flag. It had been agreed that there should be only one flag in the scout ranks and on account of the good appearance of the YpsilantiS couts and their large numbers the honor was granted them. The St. Clair and Port Huron Scouts walked first in the line and then came the well trained Ypsilanti group in even lines and splendid step, carrying the flag which gave them distinction and marching in a manner that won for them praise.

The march was from the Wayne Gardens where the President had eaten luncheon with the Detroit Board of Commerce and about 50 newspaper men, to the Cadillac hotel where he delivered an address before the revenue collectors who were assembled there in convention. When this speech had been closed after an interval of about 15 minutes, the President was ready to start on his next trip and the line of march was headed accordingly for the M. C. depot, the scouts leading as before. Mounted police followed and then eight automobiles, the first carrying Pres. Taft and his staff and those following were for secret service officers and newspaper men.

And not only the scouts themselves were well pleased with the events of the day, but the masters in charge were vastly pleased both by the honors shown them while in Detroit and by the splendid conduct of the scouts.

The train left at 4:25 and the scouts were again at liberty until time for their return home. Another sight seeing trip was in order, this time to Belle Isle and while on the island their pictures were taken by a Detroit photographer. They returned home at 5:05 and felt that the day had been an excellent one.

PRES. WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

PRESIDENT HAS PLEASANT TRIP TO PENINSULA

St. Ignace, Mich., Sept. 19.—When President Taft crossed the Straits of Mackinac this morning on the car ferry, a president of the United States for the first time in its history set foot on the Upper Peninsula.

It is seldom indeed that the north country has had the honor to entertain even a presidential possibility or candidate.

While crossing the straits, President Taft came on the deck, and Senator Townsend told him all about the beauties of Mackinac Island as a summer capital, but the president just smiled. He had not long ago been invited to make his summer home there.

The trip of the president north is a great triumph. And Saginaw and Bay City, to say nothing of Oxford and Lapeer, practically the whole town turned out to see and hear him. The train paused a moment at Oxford for water and the president went out on the platform and spoke for five minutes. At Lapeer the train only slowed down, but the people were given an opportunity to see the distinguished guest. At Saginaw fully 30,000 people were out to hear the brief speech, in which the president went briefly into the peace treaties with France and England.

Senator Smith is not in the north with Pres. Taft because of the illness of the former's father.

SCOUTS ARE GRATEFUL

Whereas, through the kindness of the citizens of Ypsilanti, the Boy Scouts were enabled to take their delightful trip to Detroit, we, the Boy Scouts, tender our sincere thanks and gratitude. We also wish to thank the finance committee who solicited the funds, the school authorities who dismissed us from school and allowed us the use of the flag which had been presented to the school by the W. R. C. And also the Scout Masters who spent much of their time in drilling us for our escort of the president.

The Committee on Resolutions.

TAFT STRIKES AT HIS CRITICS

Makes Important Utterances in Michigan Towns.

AT SAULT STE. MARIE TODAY

Nation's Chief Opens State Fair in Detroit and Talks to Board of Commerce—Also Speaks at Saginaw and Bay City.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—President Taft twice challenged his critics to prove the soundness and sincerity of their attacks upon him and the policies of his administration. For the first time on the trip he struck out into political issues and his listeners applauded his defance.

In the first important political speech of the trip made before the Detroit board of commerce he defied William Jennings Bryan and the critics of the recent anti-trust decisions of the supreme court to bring forth a case of trade restraint which should be suppressed which could not be proven a violation of the law under those decisions. The challenge was three times repeated and each time cheered by the 1,500 business men to whom he spoke.

Later, in an address before a convention of internal revenue officers, he challenged the men who had charged him with misuse of patronage to meet him in his proposal to place every local federal officer under sivil service and so wipe out patronage and its evils from the government service.

In his trust speech, he invited his critics to go to the limits of their legal imagination to formulate a case of harmful trade restraint which was not a violation of the Sherman law as interpreted by the supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases.

They cheered him again and again when he said if any one advocated amendment of the law he must come out with a concrete case and give facts that could be weighed and considered, and not content himself with mere rhetoric and declamation.

In all Mr. Taft was in the city for ten hours. It was raining hard when his train pulled in, but by the time that the breakfast tendered him at the Detroit club was over, the sun had come out brightly and "Taft weather" was on for all day. First they took him over to Pontiac, some thirty miles out of Detroit. That was Congressman Sammy Smith's share of the day and it made him perspire equal quantities of worry, importance and happiness.

The president's first speech was at the state fair grounds. The address officially opened the fair. They staged a pretty picture for his reception. About 100 school girls, running down to tots who had to squat on the ground to rest their little legs while Mr. Taft was talking, began a song about "Our Dear President" as Mr. Taft appeared. They were dressed in tri-color costumes with fairies sprinkled among them. The president talked to the fair crowd of scientific farming.

There was a gloom cast about the president's day by the news of the death of Representative Madison, whose guest he was to have been while in Hutchinson, Kan., next week.

Try Press Profitbingers for quick for quick results.

HUNDREDS OF PRESIDENT TAFT'S FOLLOWERS WERE ASSEMBLED AT THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS MONDAY TO HEAR HIS ADDRESS, WHICH WAS THE FORMAL OPENING OF THE FAIR.

THE STATE FAIR AS AN INVESTMENT.

We get out of any thing what we put into it or what we take to it. The State Fair is primarily for the farmer. It is his annual short course in up-to-date agriculture—if he makes it such. If he spends much time among the exhibits which most interest him he will go home with enough new ideas to pay him well for his trouble. If he talks freely with those in charge of the exhibits he will learn as much as would require a month of hard work and several times the cost of a trip to the fair. If he goes with no more definite idea than to blow in some money on the horses and midway he will come back as empty as he went of profitable information to aid him in meeting the competition of his neighbors who went to school to learn. Take the "short course" and don't "flunk." The farmer who doesn't take the "course" at all makes the biggest mistake of any.

RIDGE ROAD.

Ridge Road, Sept. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDougall were Jackson visitors Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton of Detroit spent Sunday with the later's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dale.

O. A. Huston was called to Denton one day last week. The errand was to get a post card which was not forwarded on account of one cent postage due. The card possessed four post marks. The first was San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 2, 1907. The second was Denton, Mich., Oct. 7, 1907. The card lay utterly helpless in the post office at Denton four years. For some unknown reason the third post mark was Plymouth, Mich., Sept. 7, 1911, while the fourth was Denton, Mich., Sept. 11, 1911. If a post card could tell a story, this one would perhaps be very interesting to hear.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT ATTRACTS ATTENTION FROM COAST TO COAST

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 16.—The goods roads movement, while perhaps reaching its zenith in Texas, where all classes of people are not only talking but building good roads, is attracting attention that is nation wide. In a very short time, Charles Henry Davis, of South Yarmouth, Massachusetts, will start across the continent from Jacksonville, Florida, to San Diego, Califorinia, in the interest of a national highway. Mr. Davis will make the trip in an automobile and carefully inspect the needs of the country through which he passes, the cost of building, etc. He has asked the Chamber of Commerce in this city to furnish him maps and data upon the Texas section of the route.

MONROE MAN IS KILLED

Edward Walker, Hit on Head by Passing Car, Dies Later.

Toledo, Sept. 19.—Edward Walker, of Monroe, Mich., died at Toledo hospital as the result of a fractured skull sustained when he leaned his head too far out from the rear platform of a Detroit and Monroe short line interurban car and was struck on the head by an incoming Detroit car.

John J. Brown, also of Monroe, who accompanied Walker to this city, says that the interurban was crowded and that they were standing on the rear platform. Walker leaned his head out for just an instant and a passing car struck him a terrible blow, crushing the top of his head.

RUNAWAY KILLS AGED MAN

Prominent Farmer Near Onekama Is Hurled Upon Car Track.

Manistee, Mich., Sept. 19.—John Yanke, a farmer, aged seventy-two, was instantly killed, and his son, Herman, aged twenty, was seriously injured at Orchard Beach Junction while driving home from this city. In driving across the street car track, the wagon slid on the rail, throwing both out. The elder Yanke's head struck on the rail, resulting in instant death. The team ran away, but was stopped when the wagon collided with a telephone pole.

Yanke was a prominent and prosperous farmer, living near Onekama. His wife, five sons and two daughters survive him.

Eccentric Millionaire Dead.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 19. — Peter Sauer, Calumet's eccentric millionaire, died at Calumet. He was seventy-three years old and came here from Bavaria in 1885. His little saloon had been visited by people from all over the world and up to a few years ago he also drove a dray. Sauer's riches resulted from early investments in Calumet and Hecla stock.

Grief Saps Life of Man.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 19.—Grief over the death of his son, who was killed in the East avenue wreck a year ago, is believed to have been responsible for the death of Norman A. Mosk of this city. Mosk failed the night the body of his son was picked up along the Michigan Central tracks, and since that time his health has been shattered.

A Great Saving to Working Men

J. A. Maple, 125 7th St., Steubenville, O., says: "For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise." Weinmann-Matthews.

AUTOMOBILE SPEED KING OF THE WORLD.

THREE VIEWS OF "WILD" BOB BURMAN, WHO WILL BE AT THE MICHIGAN STATE FAIR AUTO RACES WITH HIS BIG BENZ CAR.

This is the man who has traveled through space faster than any human being ever traveled before and lived. He has dared to do something that no other mortal ever accomplished before, and through his daring has gained the title of the "World's Speed King." Robert Burman is shown here at the wheel of the monster Benz car which he will pilot in the Michigan State Fair auto races. Burman is the holder of the world's straightaway records for the kilometer, mile and two-mile distances, and during the past five years has left behind him a trail of records broken and victories won. Burman is one of the most peculiarly constituted men in the world today, living what might be called a dual existence. In every day life he is quiet and unassuming and a thorough business man, but behind the wheel of a racing motor a mania seems to seize him and Burman becomes a man semi-frenzied in his desire to conquer time and set space at naught. Unlike former drivers who have reached the pinnacle of fame in the world of speed, Burman refuses to retire from hard fought competition with others and relies upon exhibitions of his skill to increase his fame.

Correct Process of Canning Vegetables For Winter Months.

By MYRA V. BOGUE,
of the Michigan Agricultural College.

THE housewife on the farm has adopted many modern processes of doing her work, and many old-time duties have been entirely done away with. The problem of a winter supply of vegetables for her table, which she has learned should be included in a healthful diet, is not so easy of solution. The farm garden usually supplies an abundance of vegetables in their season, and many times enough for the winter goes to waste. Tomatoes are so easily and generally canned that we will not consider them, but how many peas, beans and corn will be preserved for the table in winter?

We will review the fundamental steps in the process of correct canning and the reasons why these details are necessary. It has been demonstrated that there are three forms of life, bacteria, molds and yeasts, that cause the decay of canned goods. Of these, yeasts are easily killed, and as molds are more likely to attack jellies and preserves, we will leave them out of consideration. This places the burden upon bacteria. The seeds of bacteria are resistant to short boiling processes and will live and germinate even when no air is present. Two things, then, are absolutely necessary in canning vegetables, complete sterilization and the exclusion of air from the can.

Complete Sterilization.

The room in which the work is to be done should be as free from dust as possible, the clothing, hands and everything to be used should be thoroughly clean. The cans and tops should be placed, top down, in a kettle of cold water and boiled for about ten minutes. All utensils should be sterilized in the same way. The water to be used in filling the cans should be boiled for a half hour in a teakettle and then cooled. The cans must be taken one at a time from the boiling water just as they are to be filled. The tops should be taken from the boiling water and placed directly on the cans. The rubbers must also be put into the boiling water for a few minutes. The boiling point is usually sufficient to kill the parent bacteria, but the seeds will live and germinate after the vegetable has cooled, and so the destructive work is only arrested, not completely checked by this process. To be sure that the vegetable is perfectly sterilized, the boiling point must be maintained for several hours—four to five—or for an hour or two on three successive days. The writer has found the latter the safest method. The first hour's boiling is supposed to kill all the molds and the parent bacteria, but upon cooling the seeds germinate and form a new crop of bacteria. The second hour's boiling kills this second crop of bacteria before new seeds can form, and the third hour's boiling makes "assurane doubly sure."

After the cans of vegetables are sterilized and tightly sealed, allow them to stand over night, top side down, and after looking them over to see that there is no air vent, dip each can in melted parafine so that the rubber is covered with a thin layer.

Utensils For Successful Canning.

Use broad-bottomed enameled or alluminum stew pans, spoons, measuring cups, etc. Glass cans are best. The one in most general use, with a tin top lined with glass, is open to the objection that some of the tin may be dissolved and affect both the color and wholesomeness of the contents. The can with a glass screw top in one piece is better, but for vegetables the can with a glass top which rests on top of the rubber and is held in place with a spring is best. The best rubber rings should be used and renewed each season. A common wash boiler which holds about thirteen cans may be used for sterilizing the vegetables. A slat or wire bottom should be inserted so as to hold the cans away from the boiler bottom and still allow the flow of water. Use only three or four inches of water, for it is the steam that does the cooking.

Corn.

Select young, tender ears of sweet corn, husk and silk; then with a sharp knife shave off the outside of the kernels and scrape the inner juicy porton from the cob. Fill the cans, add one teaspoonful of salt, then pour in sterilized water from the tea kettle until it runs over. Put on rubbers and tops, but do not seal. Set cans in the boiler, pour in the cold water, cover, bring to a boil and boil for one hour. Remove cover, and when the steam has escaped screw or clamp the tops and repeat the boiling. Fasten tops as before and cool. The third day repeat this operation. Then, when cool, parafine and put in a cool, dark place.

Peas.

Use young peas. Shell and pack the cans, add one teaspoonful of salt, fill with sterilized water and proceed as with corn.

Beans.

Select very tender pods. String them and cut in inch pieces. Pack in the cans, add one teaspoonful salt, fill with sterilized water and cook the same as corn.

Other vegetables, as cauliflower, asparagus, lima beans, etc., may be similarly canned.

Harvesting the Bean Crop.

By R. J. BALDWIN,
Of the Michigan Agricultural College.

THE pea bean has become one of Michigan's most valuable products. The value of this crop depends very largely upon its being harvested in a manner which will prevent the beans from being discolored. This is more important when it is remembered that each pound of bad beans cost another pound to have them removed by hand.

Of course, weather conditions are a vital factor in the harvest, but there are methods which shorten the period of exposure in the field and others which prevent spoiling in case of a continuous rainy spell. The most important point in curing the crop without waste is in avoiding delay after the beans are ready for harvest or during harvest. This can often be made more certain by giving the machinery a thorough going over before hand and securing extra sets of puller knives, which are kept sharp in readiness to replace dulled ones. In case the area to be harvester is very great the work should be begun before all the pods are ripe and while the top green leaves are yet on the vines. Since gathering by hand has been replaced by the use of the side rake, leaves on the vines are an advantage in that they prevent the pods from being shelled and make a bulk large enough for the rake to work well.

The usual plan followed in using this machine is to rake two rows, as left by the puller, into one, and on the return trip two others are raked on top of these, making a windrow containing eight bean rows. There will always be a few straggling vines left by the puller and rake which can be gathered while the windrow is being bunched by hand. If the fields are large and labor is scarce, vines that are missed can be left without much loss above the cost of gathering them. The delay occasioned by gathering all loose vines often results in damage to the whole crop from bad weather later in the harvest.

A general plan which has worked well in many bean regions is to run the puller and side rake in the morning while dew makes the vines tough, leaving the hand work, such as bunching, to be done later in the day. This routine can be followed until the first beans pulled are cured and ready to be drawn, then these should be stored as rapidly as possible.

In case rain wets the bunches through they will need to be turned in order to get the soaked pods off the ground and also to leave the bunches loose to allow free circulation of air which insures rapid drying. If bad weather continues the turning will have to be done every day to prevent mildew and contact with wet earth from rotting the pods and discoloring the beans. It is possible to save a crop with small loss from discoloration even under bad weather conditions if the turning is pursued continuously.

After Harvesting.

After a crop of beans has been removed from the land, the soil is usually in a loose, open condition as left by the cultivators and puller. If not used in the fall for some other crop, such as wheat or rye, these upper layers of soil will suffer considerable damage from leaching during the fall rains and spring freshets. This is due to the fact that the working of the soil while the crop is being cultivated and pulled leaves much readily soluble plant food near the surface where it can be dissolved and washed away by every rain.

In case the beans are harvested late, or for other reasons, it is not desirable to sow wheat or rye, a very light seeding of oats may be used. These will make considerable growth before killed by frost, and the roots will hold the surface soil enough to prevent loss from leaching and washing. The tops will be killed and become packed down on the surface before spring, but if the seeding is not more than three pecks or a bushel there will not be enough material on the surface to prevent land being fitted for oats in the usual way without plowing.

An additional advantage in this plan is that the fall growth of oats leaves enough decayed plant material in the surface layer of soil to help prevent its becoming hard and dry during late spring and early summer, thus assuring a catch of grass seed and clover.

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

A good, wide, open-mouthed yawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy. But this is not so.

You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired, and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning, just yawn. Don't try to suppress it. If you are afraid of offending somebody, suppose you step out of the room. Then yawn to your heart's content. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn, just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of relaxing the muscles.

Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it.

Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lifting the feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you.

Kidney Troubles Attack Ypsilanti Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old.
Come quickly with little warning.
Children suffer in their early years.
Can't control the kidney secretions.
Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.
Women worry, can't do daily work.
Men have lame and aching backs.
The cure for man, woman or child.
Is to cure the cause—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills reach the cause.
Ypsilanti testimony proves it.

Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, 513 S. Huron St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Weinmann-Matthews Co.'s drug store, brought good results in my son's case. About three years ago he had an attack of typhoid fever and after that he complained of bachache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. When stooping or lifting, his back bothered him more than ever and often there was sediment in the kidney secretions, plainly proving that his kidneys were disordered. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills removed every symptom of this trouble and in return for this great improvement I take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills."

WORLD'S SERIES BIGGEST EVER

Great Fight In Both Leagues This Season Awakens Interest.

MACK AND M'GRAW MAY CLASH

In 1905 New York Giants' Leader Scored Easily Over the American League Champions, but It Will Be Different Now.

By TOMMY CLARK.

One baseball prediction can be safely ventured at this time, and that is the world's series of 1911 will surpass in interest any ever played previously. The terrific fights in both big league baseball organizations for the championship have keyed the "fans" up to a sixty horsepower pitch of excitement, and the series of games for the world's title is bound to reap the benefits.

With the New York Giants having a splendid chance to win the National league pennant and the Athletics having the American league bunting almost won, the world's series of 1911 may be a repetition of the contests of 1905, when the New Yorkers and Athletics of Philadelphia had it out. On that occasion the Giants won four of the five games from the Mack men.

There are many who believe the Athletics would defeat the Giants if they again meet this fall. It seems that John McGraw is in command of a team inferior to the one he owned six years ago. On the other hand, the Athletics are generally believed to be stronger than the team that represented the American league in the world's series of 1905.

But few of the men who engaged in the 1905 series would be seen in action this year. None of the Giants, save the pitchers and Arthur Devlin, who is no longer a regular of McGraw's team, are now members of the New York team. Of the old Athletics, Briscoe, Lord, Danny Murphy, Topsy Hartsel, Harry Davis and some of the pitchers remain. Davis and Hartsel are no longer regulars.

Another Giants-Athletic series would bring together those famous veterans, Christopher Mathewson and Chief Charles Bender. They had it out in the former series, Matty winning, 2-0, although Bender had the better of the hit argument, 6-5. Incidentally Bender won the only game of the series from the Giants, defeating Joe McGinnity and Leon Ames, 3-0.

Today McGraw has no man like Roger Bresnahan to do his catching. His outfield will probably hit as hard and is as fast as the old Browne-Mertes-Donlin combination, but the infield is not as air tight. Matty is still pitching winning ball, but is hardly the same wizard that he was six years ago. However, instead of McGinnity the Giants now have Marquard as the next best bet to Big Six.

Bender is probably as good today as he was when he last faced the Giants. Eddie Plank, although a veteran now, still seems to have his old cunning. A two hit game against the Browns recently shows that he is far from through as a big leaguer. Then Mack has John Coombs, Harry Morgan and a flock of juveniles to fall back on.

For the last two seasons the Athletics have figured as real pennant contenders. They won last season and will probably repeat this year.

While Chief Bender was Mack's main reliance last season, the Indian received valuable aid from John Coombs, the Maine iron man, but the New Englander has not had such a successful campaign this season. However, it is probable that he is being nursed along by the wise Cornelius and will do his real work when the world's series battling is on.

But when Coombs fell down Eddie Plank came to life again. He did his share of the work last season, but the real work was left to Bender and Coombs. This season, though, Plank is proving a great aid to the Philadelphians.

Jackson a Quick Thinker.

CURRENT SPORT NOTES

An English curling team will visit Canada this winter.

Eddie Hanlon, ex-lightweight pugilist, wants to take up refereeing fights on the Pacific coast. He is twenty-five years old.

Sydney, New South Wales, has forty-four baseball teams, including fifteen school nines, playing the national pastime of the United States.

Tommy Keane, the Syracuse university athletic trainer, believes that Reidpath, his crack quarter miler, is able to outstride any of the college cracks at that distance.

It has been announced that a winter meeting of a hundred days will begin at the Juarez (Mexico) race track Dec. 1. More than $300,000 in stakes and purses will be hung up for competition.

Ernie Johnson, for many years one of the best players of the Wanderer hockey team of Montreal, has signed a contract to play hockey in Calgary, Canada, next winter at a salary of $2,000.

GERMANY SCHAEFER A REAL HUMORIST.

Herman Schaefer can always have a job on a team that Jimmy McAleer manages. The Washington manager says he could not get along without Herman.

"He's been a big help to us this year, both in batting and fielding," says McAleer. "And then 'Schaef' constantly keeps the team in good humor.

SCHAEFER.

"Whenever I have an all star team I engage 'Schaef,' and before the first game is over 'Schaef' will have assigned more work to himself than any other man on the team has.

"When I got up a team to play against the Athletics last fall, after the American league season closed, I included 'Schaef' in the squad.

"In the first game in Philadelphia Cobb did not play. He lost a wheel on his auto coming to Philly, so I had Schaefer in right.

"Of course the crowd wanted to see Cobb above all others, and they continually asked Schaefer, 'Where's Cobb?' Finally 'Schaef' turned to the mob in the bleachers and yelled:

"'Cobb, Cobb! Who the deuce is Cobb? Ladies and gentlemen, keep your eyes focused on me and you will witness the greatest exhibition ever staged on a ball field. Cobb? Why, if that guy would see me play he'd burn his uniform.'"

GREAT HITTERS HAVE FANNED THREE TIMES.

Those discussing the relative merits of the big league batsmen, Ty Cobb, Larry Lajoie and Hans Wagner, can no longer remark in any argument against Cobb that the world's greatest ball player has been fanned three times in one game while Lajoie and Wagner never underwent that torture.

Manning, who used to pitch for the New York Highlanders, set down Tyrus three times in a game played in New York. That was some time ago. Still, Wagner and Lajoie never experienced the same displeasure until recently, and a peculiar coincidence was that both Larry and Hans fanned three times on the same afternoon.

George Suggs, former Tiger, pitching for Cincinnati, handed it to Hans, while Ed Walsh, who won fame this season by pitching a no hit-no run game, struck out Larry in three out of four times at bat.

JACK JOHNSON TO RETURN.

Heavyweight Champion Anxious to Grab Some Loose Change.

John Arthur Johnson is coming back to New York. While this fact will not occasion a holiday, it is important enough to chronicle. The news comes from a good source.

The reason Lil Artha bade us farewell was that there was no lucre in sight. When he sailed for London he had put his mark on a contract with Hugh McIntosh calling for three battles in Australia. This was the best he could do for himself, and he grabbed the opportunity. But a little thing like a contract does not bother Johnson, according to Sam Fitzpatrick, George Little and a few other promoters who had him under seal and witness.

There are a few men in this country that Johnson could mingle with and grab off some change. Sam Langford would be delighted to spar with him. There are a few white men who would also take a chance. Johnson is training in a mild way to fight Bombardier Wells in England. As soon as he finishes the Britisher with the fearful title he will hasten this way.

DIAMOND TIPS

Hauser, the little shortstop of the St. Louis club, is a great ball player, after the style of Bush of the Detroit Tigers.

Bob Harmon of the St. Louis Cardinals is the poorest relief pitcher in the National league. He has had very bad luck in his rescuing expeditions.

George Jackson, the Boston Nationals' outfielder, was with the St. Louis Browns two seasons ago and set adrift as too crude for the big league.

It is said that Vincent Campbell is being groomed by Manager Clarke of the Pittsburg Pirates for that first base job, which nobody seems able to fill satisfactorily.

Umpire "Silk" O'Loughlin says more hits are made on bad balls than good ones. "Silk" has seen thousands of hits made and says a big majority were on balls that were too far out, too close or too high or too low to be strikes. Free hitters like Lajoie, Jackson, Cobb and Crawford seldom hit good balls. One reason is that they don't get many good ones.

PREFER TEAM WORKERS TO RECORD HOLDERS.

A ball team is not helped by players who have in mind their individual records and overlook the welfare of their team. It is because John McGraw discourages such tactics that his team has been a success this season. The same is true of the Cubs and the Athletics. Ball players to be valuable to a team need not have remarkable records. They need not be leaders, but if they work for the best interests of their team they bring about desired results.

Unfortunately, the player who works for his team does not always get the credit he deserves, while the chap who is out to make a record for himself frequently receives applause which he should not be given.

GREGG IS PITCHING DISCOVERY

Cleveland Pitcher Regarded as Worthy Successor to Addie Joss.

Vean Gregg is the great pitching discovery of the season in the American league, baseball fans say. This youthful portsider came in the nick of time to keep the Cleveland club on the baseball map. He is a worthy successor of Addie Joss as the premier pitcher of the Buckeye metropolis.

There is no denying the coming of Gregg has made a pennant possibility of the Cleveland club—in 1912. No club could go through the series of disasters that has befallen the Naps in this year of grace and survive to enter the fray as a contender for the bunting. Nearly every great player of the Naps' galaxy of stars has been out of the game for various periods. At one time this season Lajoie, Jackson, Turner, Birmingham and Easterly were forced from the game, and a makeshift team was necessary.

Cole's Hot Blast Draft on top of the fire burns the coal from the top—burns the gas, which is wasted with all other stoves.

The force of this down draft forces the heat to the base which is made of steel—cannot burn out—and heats the floor.

Thousands of testimonials have been written regarding the base heating qualities of

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The ideal heating stove is one which radiates all the heat thrown off from the fuel—into the rooms—instead of letting it go up the chimney.

The durable heater is the one which will withstand the severe use, year after year, which a heating stove is necessarily subjected to. Sheet steel is the quickest radiator of heat and is used as radiating surface only in Cole's Hot Blast heater. Wherever the fuel comes in contact with the linings—only first quality gray cast iron is used.

Cast iron withstands the wear of the heat from active combustion better than any other material, and the large, sensitive, sheet metal body and base radiate all the heat into the rooms.

ESCAPED CONVICT SEEN

Boy Catches Him Taking Off Dress Back of Church.

Ohio Officials Trail Prisoner Who Impersonated Wife of the Warden in Flight.

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—Michael Soboleski, fugitive murder convict from Lucas county, who escaped from the Ohio penitentiary, attired in the clothing of Warden T. H. B. Jones' wife, is believed to be hiding near Hilliards. A search is being made for the fugitive.

He was seen there late at night by a boy whose attention was attracted by a man in the rear of the church at Hilliards taking off woman's apparel. The boy turned the clothes over to the authorities.

Prison officials were at once notified and declared that a description of the clothes answered exactly to that of the woman's attire worn by Soboleski.

CITY ENGINEER DEMURS

Approves Work at Saginaw Intake Despite Experts' Report.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 19.—That much-discussed intake pipe for the east side pumping station, which will cost over $16,000, is still giving trouble. At a meeting of the water board City Engineer Roberts submitted his report on the work. He says aside from the error in grade the work is satisfactory and the best that could be done under the circumstances.

Since Smith, Hinchman and Grylls of Detroit made their official test and reported their findings, City Engineer Roberts has endeavored to belittle the firm's work, alleging that the work was done by students. This firm reported defects that caused petitions signed by labor unions and taxpayers to flow into the council, requesting that the intake be not accepted. The water board referred the report to the council and the superintendent was instructed to arrange with Smith, Hinchman & Grylls to make a second inspection.

MISSED, IS FOUND DEAD

Young Saginaw County Farmer Killed in Evening.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 19.—Joseph B. Jenpryeski, twenty-one years old, was found dead about twenty feet from the Grand Trunk railroad tracks, which pass through his father's farm in Bridgeport township. It is thought he was struck by a train. The older Jenpryski took his team of horses out of the barn Saturday evening to water them. They got out on the railroad right of way and it is thought that the son while trying to get the horses off the track was killed.

When he did not return nothing was thought of the matter as it was customary for him to spend the night at his sister's home in Fosters, a few miles from there. When it was learned that he was not there, a search was made and his body found.
